

NAMIBIA

Namibia got its name after independence in 1990 and is derived from the Namib Desert.

Namibia's flag is divided by a red band edged with a white band on either side on the lower side of the red is green and the upper side is blue with a yellow 12 ray sun

The colors and symbols all have a meaning:
Blue – represents the Namibian sky and the Atlantic Ocean, the country's precious water resources and rain
Red – represents the heroism of the people and their determination to build a future of equal opportunity for all
White – represents peace, unity, tranquility & harmony
Green- represents vegetation & agricultural resources
Yellow sun represents power and existence

Interesting facts about Namibia

- Namibia is twice the size of California but is the 2nd least densely populated country in the world
- The Namib desert is the worlds oldest desert dating back 80 million years
- Sossusvlei are said to be the highest sand-dunes in the world
- Namibia has the largest free-roaming cheetah population in the world
- Largest underground lake can be found here it is called Dragon's Breath

